1 Editorial Principles

The new edition of the second Marathasa document was the main project of this author's Master thesis. Besides the omissions and the incorrect data, the first editor has been also negligent in regard to the editorial principles. For instance, she has introduced capitalisation in every name of parici and places, contrary to the original document. In addition, there is no indication of the abbreviations used by the copyist and every name was recorded as it was supposed to be pronounced. As an example, the name Vasilis, which is usually documented with the abbreviation 'vli', is regularly recorded by Imhaus with one 's' while the copyist, when providing us the name in full, has used in many cases the 'ss' in an effort to give the verbal pronunciation. Similarly, the name Xristina (the X represents the Greek consonant χ), which was regularly given by the writer as Xina, was transcribed by the first editor as Christina. Another instance is the letter J, which was frequently used by Peratis for names as Jannis and Jacomo, has been recorded by Imhaus as I. Other than names, the first editor has provided the reader with an incorrect full form of the abbreviation 'mta'. According to her, that results to the word maritata which has not any specific definition. In contrast, the copyist who was apparently a native Cypriot, used the correct Italian term in several instances, the adjective maridata which derives from the word maridar, to get married. Additionally, the first editor has introduced punctuation whereas the copyist has not. Last but not least, Imhaus has also mistakenly recorded the information given under folia 73^r to 74^r. The data provided in folio 73^r according to the first edition, commencing with the payment of widows, are in reality recorded in 74^r. Then the information given under folio 73^v of the first edition, which is the table of payments by the parici, is recorded in folio 73^r of the manuscript and the following table of angarie is given under folio 74^r in the first edition while it is recorded in folio 73^v.¹

In consequence, it was decided to proceed with a new, diplomatic edition, which would not interfere with the original document. Taking into consideration the choices of the writer and the copyist, every word has been preserved as it is in the original, including mistakes. The layout of the document was also kept the same. Furthermore, a closer observation of the collection of the documents concerning Antonio Audet, revealed that the document preceding the survey in the manuscript, completes the ‘Prattico dele Marathasse Real’ in many ways and should also be edited. The same principle for faithful to the manuscript text diplomatic editions has also been applied for AR and KK. The only addition made to the documents, which was necessary for referencing, was the numbering of the recorded population. It has also been introduced a capitalisation for those anthroponyms and toponyms the initial letter of which was not capitalised by the scribes; the introduced capital letters have been marked in bold letters. Furthermore, for the expansion of the abbreviations used by the scribes the form of the words found elsewhere in the documents has been followed.
